1743. Mr. R. Nagan Gowda: I see from page 15 in list 3 that in 30 villages the outturn of crops was about 4 annas and tha in 20 villages it was 5 annas. Considering the fact that these villages had no good crops in the previous years will the Government consider the question remitting or suspending the collection of land revenue for fasli 1337 at least?

The Hon. Sir Norman Marjoribanks:- We will put the hon. Member's suggestion to the Collector and ask for his report.

Mr. R. Nagan Gowda: Considering that collection of land revenue is going on now will the Government consider the advisability of expediting the matter?

The Hon. Sir Norman Marjoribanks: Certainly, Sir: this is a matter that must receive immediate attention.

Mr P. Siva Rap:- Will the Government consider the question of the suspension of the collection of takavi loans also?

The Hon. Sir Norman Marjoribanks:- If the hon. Member can give me a statement of the grounds on which I may take action I shall be very glad to consider it.

Sir,

ASSESSMENT - Land Revenue - Bellary taluk - poor -- yield - fasli 1337 - suspension proposals - called for.

In paragraph 2 of my report R.C.No. 5494/27 A.5. dated 2-2-28 I stated that the land revenue for fasli 1337 should be collected as usual in all the villages of Bellary taluk.

2. The estimation of the outturn in the 55 villages referred to in paragraphs 1 & 2 of the Government Memorandum under reply was made when the hingari crops were still on ground. Owing to the withholding of rains there was then a fear that the crops might fail partly or totally and the entire outturn worked out and submitted to the Board of -- Revenue was based upon such a presumption. Later on it was feared that the rains received in the early part of February might affect these standing crops adversely. I have since ascertained that this has not been the case but that the -- crops, on the other hand, have been generally benefitted by those rains. The Revenue Divisional Officer, Bellary, does not recommend the suspension of the kists of fasli 1337 in any of the villages of Bellary taluk and I quite agree with him. The Revenue Divisional Officer has also brought to my notice instances when he was able to collect 2 or 3 ---- thousand rupees in affected villages of Bellary taluk, in - the course of 3 or 4 ~~months~~ hours by a mere threat to distrain -- property, indicating that the means to pay was already there and that there was wilful refusal to pay in the hope that that Government would grant further concessions. The agitation for the suspension of these kists at the instigation of "sympathisers" is an insidious form of passive resistence to payment of Government dues. I have dealt at length with this state of affairs in my letter to the Board C.No. 5494/27 dated 22-2-28, a copy of which is herewith enclosed for reference.

3. In the circumstances I do not consider any concession necessary so far as the collection of the kists of fasli 1337 in the 55 villages of Bellary taluk is concerned. In fact I go further and maintain that any further concession to this unwarranted propaganda will undermine still further the efficiency of Revenue administration in this district and lead to far greater trouble in future years.

4. In my recent jamabandi of Rayadrug taluk I have come across numerous cases in which the outturn as stated by karnams has been wilfully and quite unwarrantedly low and has had to be altered considerably by Revenue Inspectors and the tahsildar, indicating the extent to which village officers have been contaminated by this propaganda. Rayadrug taluk has ~~perfunctly~~ fortunately so far escaped wholesale infection, and a very little straight-talking leads to prompt payment of dues. But the case of Bellary taluk is in my opinion critical and that explains why in my original proposals, since modified by Government, I laid special stress on the necessity for insisting upon the payment of this year's Land Revenue in all the villages, as I and my Revenue Officers are quite sure the ryots can pay. I may add, to indicate that we are not the soulless rapacious tax gatherers, which this insidious propaganda would seem to suggest, we have unanimously agreed that all s payments should be postponed a sufficiently big concession to meet the present situation.

Copy of this ~~office~~ Collector's letter C. 5494/27, dated 22-2-28, to the Board of Revenue, Land Revenue & Settlement, Madras.

I am not surprised at having a letter of this kind to reply to. I had an interview with Mr. Nagana Gowd only a few days before he wrote it, which must have lasted about an hour and he made the same kind of representations as in his letter. I explained to him that his point of view must to a great extent differ from mine, and that as a Revenue Officer it is my duty merely to present the facts and that I had no power to allow concessions. I may say that I know him pretty well. Unlike many of his colleagues he does take the trouble to see the places he writes about and I have met him as a member of various deputations in different parts of the district in connection with state of crops, disputes about river - channels and so on and I have always found him open to fair discussion on merits. In the present case a lot of what he says is undoubtedly true. There must in a fairly bad year like this be a number of individuals who have lost their crops and will find it hard to pay their kists. But there is no provision for Government or for a subordinate Revenue official acting under their definite rules and instructions to go into such details. This year it is quite possible to go to any of the villages reported on and see many a field without any crop but the instructions of the B.S.O. prescribe a broad view to be taken of a fairly wide tract and a sort of rough average is made over as narrow an extent as a single village. As to the estimation of this average, we have on the one hand the opinion of a layman who has no advantage of any detailed statistics or detailed inspection and on the other that of a trained and experienced Revenue officials, based on ~~xxx~~ personal and laborious inspection of every single village in the taluk.

2. I may mention that my proposals are not merely a soulless routine document drawn up carelessly on casual remarks from reports of subordinate officers. They are based on solid labour of a very experienced tahsildar who has detailed knowledge of his taluk and that of a new but exceedingly action (both physically and mentally) Revenue Divisional Officer and before I thought of writing my report which was more or less purposely delayed so that it - it might be as complete and convincing as possible I sat over their reports with them for a considerable time and went into all the details with a map showing in different colours the parts badly affected, those less so and those that had a fairly decent crop. I only mention these things to indicate that we have all done our best to set on paper as true a picture of the actual conditions as possible. The last para of my report is the direct result of our joint review of the situation with reference to the special conditions of the Bellary taluk with incidental reference to certain villages of the Rayadrug taluk which border on the Bellary taluk and which have also suffered from too much "sympathy".

3. It will be noticed that this year as well as last great emphasis has been laid on B.S.O. 14 by unofficial outsiders. Last year Mr. P.Siva Rao, M.L.C., raised the point, this year Mr. Nagana Gowd has done the same. This B.S.O. is capable of different interpretations. Under it, the scheme for remission or suspension of kists only comes into operation where there is wide - spread distress over a fairly big area. Can that be said to be the case this year ? I think not except with reference to individual cases, not with reference to villages taken as unit. Again, what is meant by the term average 'yield' for a district like Bellary ? I imagine that if any crop is estimated at 9 annas it is looked upon as a bumper one in Bellary, though possibly -- not so in many other districts. Also please see the last sentence of para (9) of B.S.O. 14, which is a pen-picture of conditions in - the Bellary District. To look at it from another point of view supposing that last year had been a decent year, should we have recommended suspension of the current kist for the villages that we have put in our lowest class? The Tahsildar thinks possibly we might. But he has been through a period of special concessions for the Bellary taluk over a period of years. Personally I think it very improbable. The Revenue Divisional officer from his experience of other districts in inclined to think not. But we are all agreed that the people of the Bellary taluk ought at this stage be called upon to make some sort of effort and it is our opinion that they can pay this year's kist if they realise it has to be done done and that they are not going to be let off once again.

4. At the risk of being thought tedious and to be introducing irrelevant matter, I venture to review my impressions of this district after two kist seasons - for what they are worth. I joined in the middle of November 1926. Within a month I had interviews with each of the three local M.L.Cs. and they were kind enough to instruct me as that of course there would be remission or suspension of kists and famine operations. I was entirely new to the district and I cannot help feeling that it was their intention, possibly unconscious, to impress upon me the way things were done in Bellary and the fact that of course Government officials were soulless beings and without bowels of mercy! Within the same period shoals of petitions came in, asking for famine works at once. These were generally accompanied by deputations from individual villages, swollen, to make them all the more impressive, by numbers of ryots who probably would not have worked as famine coolies but were quite ready to take up odd jobs as masonries etc. as on previous occasions. It was a more or less ordered procession of petitions and deputations which made one subject encouragement from the back. Not a very easy position but, as in this year, all revenue officials did their duty in the way of intensive inspection and submission of reports. All the time I was impressed with what might be called the famine mentality which I had met with in another district and which is so difficult to deal with. A general feeling of hopelessness and inability to make any effort, backed up by strong support from outside. For it is of course quite easy and simple to be generous with somebody else's money and Government revenue is always fair game for attacks so long as it does not involve extra taxation to make up deficits. I am glad to say that with Government's most timely help and encouragement in a somewhat new method, the famine mentality disappeared and on the whole I think we can claim to have cheered up the whole district and put a temporary stop to what must be called the grovelling attitude of the people of the whole taluk. However defective the new district boards roads are an however long it will take to make them into really good roads, I still believe that the moral effect of resisting what almost amounts to gratuitous relief was wholly good. In the middle of all this, came the avalanche of Takkavi petitions - a thing I had never seen before and which I do not fancy any other districts have seen. Counting all the petitions received from time to time during a period of a few months, including petitions in triplicate to the Collector, Board and Government, duplicates to the Collector and Special Loans Officer and applications split up in order to be able to get a total sum beyond the competence of a loans tahsildar, the total asked for was over Rs.28 lakhs. Of course we all knew that the amount of bona fide applications would be considerably less than this but the receipt, custody and sorting of this mass of paper was no light job. Though Government is now paying for a large special establishment, it is in no sense less than what ought to have been employed at the outset had we been able to foresee what was going to happen. Mr. Venkateswaran's special enquiry and the labours of the present special staff have shown very clearly what the real situation is what outside influences are at work deliberately egging on the unfortunate taluk folk to say, ask, ask, M.L.Cs. various self-styled sympathisers, money lenders, village officers, a certain number of ryots who are quite able to pay. These special enquiries and proceedings will I am quite sure have a most beneficial effect in future. There were indications at one time that other taluks of the district, such as Alur and Adoni hitherto free from the contagion were about to be infected with the same poison and it required great tact and firmness on the part of Revenue Officials there to fight it. The fact that efficient enquiries were being pushed through by special staffs choked a large number of would be applicants off.

5. I hope that is not a useless exaggeration. I believe I am only stating facts. At any rate this is my reason for submitting my proposals with a last paragraph indicating that I was aware that they were rather stiff but needed to be so in the circumstances.

6. It is not for me to suggest concessions but to state facts as far as I know them. I am aware that last year the Commissioner left on record his opininn that unless there was a fairly good harvest this year suspended kists should be remitted. I must leave it to Government to act on that recommendation if they think fit but I would most strongly urge that the people of the taluk be made to pay the current kists. Other parts of the district have not fared too well, for instance Hadagalli in the Hospet division, but there has been no such trained clamour for concession as in the Bellary taluk.

7. Though we have not yet got complete figures we are all agreed that payment of loans instalments will have to be postponed. This is in anticipation of what must I think be our report, later, and is a sufficiently great concession in the circumstances of the season this year.

8. But if Government still wish me to modify my proposals I would draw attention to G.O. 636 Mis., Revenue, dated 1st May 1925 in which Government were pleased to pass orders in fasli 1334 with regard to the collection of the arrears of land revenue suspended in faslis 1332 and 1333 in the Bellary taluk, in circumstances that may be said to be fairly similar to those of this year. If ordered I am prepared to put up fresh proposals on those lines but I do not think it at all necessary.

Collector.

Sir:

I wish to acknowledge D.O. No. 20437/I/13/28-1 Rev. and thank you for ordering postponement of Collection of 1336 fasli land revenue in 154 villages (completely in some and partially in others) of Bellary and Rayadurg Tqs of Bellary Dt.

Ellary/76

Of these villages, 35 of Bellary Taluq had been supplied by the Dt. Officers for complete postponement of collection of 1336 fasli. List. Now I am glad to note your order extends this to 55 of Bellary. But I wish to bring to your notice the fact that these 35 villages have suffered most and they have just cause to expect postponement of 1337 fasli land revenue also. If they are compelled to pay this year's land revenue many ryots will have to do so either by borrowing at usurious or by selling off their little property they might have.

I am enclosing a list of these 35 villages for your consideration.

Yours sincerely,
R. Nagan Gowda

The villages mentioned by the M.L.C at p 3 ante are those given in items 96 to 130 of the Collector's list. Of these 36 villages the outturn of crops in fasli 1337 was five annas in 4 villages and 4 annas in 31 villages. The Collector of Bellary recommends only the postponement of the Collection lists of fasli 1336 in these villages. He has not recommended the suspension or remission of any portion of the lists due for fasli 1337. If any concession will be granted for these villages in respect of the current year's revenue, ~~thereon~~ as suggested by the M.L.C, the concession may have to be granted to 20 other villages in ~~the~~ which the yield in the current year was only 5 annas and in which the Govt have sanctioned the postponement of the collection of the kists of fasli 1336 to fasli 1338.
